Tips to consider:

- Background checks can reveal whether someone has been convicted of a crime or engaged in any inappropriate act. They also help determine if an applicant was honest on their job application.
- Ensure safe recruiting and hiring practices by creating a screening policy using a combination of background check products
- Select products that can be bundled in a package for position-specific searches
- Establish criteria to evaluate background check results and determine what will define disqualifying information
- Follow the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) rules and regulations
